A Two-day workshop on “Statistical Data Analysis for Veterinary Research using SPSS software” was conducted by the Department of Animal Genetics and Breeding, RIVER on March 08-09, 2019 for the PG students and Assistant Professors (on contract) of RIVER with the following objectives

1. To expose the participants to the various features of SPSS software package to understand the capabilities of the software in analyzing the data.
2. To develop the skill of the participants in handling this statistical software for data analysis by providing adequate hands-on-training and study material

The workshop was attended by 37 participants. Dr. R. Ganesan, Professor (Statistics), Department of Animal Genetics and Breeding, RIVER, Puducherry was the course-coordinator. During the workshop, participants were explained the statistical concepts required for data analysis, Demo of the various statistical analysis and hand-on practical training.